THE TRUTH SHALL PREVAIL...

Mark Slade illustrates his experiences as an actor

Mark Slade, who plays Billy Blue in The High Chaparral, was art editor of his high school year book; won a Disney art contest; drew cartoon strips for newspapers in Hamilton and Danvers, Mass.; and was a political cartoonist for the Worcester Academy. Cartoons are his "means of self-expression," he says. "I become my own characters, like Al Capp (Li'l Abner) and Charles Schulz (who really believes he's Charlie Brown)." Here, Slade depicts Slade as a young innocent in TV land.
